Yes. And show any appropriate license. Ammo must be separate. TSA website goes over it pretty well. My husband never leaves home without his piece, so I've watched him while we're at the airport. It's really not a big deal. Of course we were flying Texas to FL, so there was reciprocity.

permalink parent save report block reply

= Jemmy\_2 2 points 12 days ago +2 / -0

FYI ammo doesn't need to be separate (although it can be), just needs to be in a case designed for ammo. Technically you can have it loaded in magazines as long as it's not in the gun, but I keep it all separate to avoid any headaches.

You shouldn't need to show any CCW or anything like that just to fly with it.

permalink parent save report block reply

= Jemmy\_2 2 points 12 days ago +2 / -0

Must be in a locked hard-sided case unloaded. You have to tell the agent at the gate that you need to declare (they should know what that means but you can specify that you have an unloaded and locked firearm.) They'll have you fill out an affidavit attesting to that.

DO NOT USE TSA LOCKS - THAT IS ILLEGAL. You must be the only person with the keys.

Ammunition can be stored with the firearm in the case, but should be in the original packaging or a case designed for the ammo.

You do not need to show any sort of firearm/ccw license.

Be aware of local laws when it comes to what firearms you can bring and local laws regarding transportation.

There's a number of good videos you can find on youtube that cover the whole process. It's not as painful as you'd think.

I looked it up to see what airline they'd be flying. Why? Idle curiosity. I flew twice a week for 20 years, so I checked to see who they're flying. They're flying on American Airlines. The Philly hub threw me somewhat, because their major hub is DFW.

Well, any AA employees who are leftist scum (and there are plenty) could fuck with this kid. They probably haven't sold that many tickets for this route today, so they could easily tell who it is. Luggage? Gone. Singled out for extra screening by TSA? Absolutely. Accidentally delete the reservation? You betcha.

Oh...their major hub has always been DFW, but the way he told it, it sounds like he's flying nonstop from Commiefornia to Philadelphia on AA. This would not have been possible until very recently. Then, he drives from Philly to D.C. That's all I got peeps.

So far as a gun, you can certainly fly cross country with a gun, that's not an issue. All you need is a valid photo ID but you need that to get on the plane.

Join a MAGA caravan. Start one if you don't have it.

Here's 1 caravan already organized. It's sleek. We need some copy cats for other states.

<https://thedonald.win/p/11R4ucQt9Q/organizing-caravan-for-dc-marchi/c/>

You don't need to lead the caravan, only organize. Leaders get picked out at the first meeting or en route. Once the ball gets rolling, strong leaders naturally come out of the woodwork ready to take charge. Getting people there to begin with is what's important. Any of us memespammers can do that.

For the classics like you've listed:

Metallica, Slayer, Pantera, Megadeth, and Death.

Do I like it? Can I mosh to it? Then it's metal. That's how I define things. I can't deal with the 4000 micro-genres and then you get critics telling bands that they're not really in the genre that band actually created!

Having flown lax to DC many times, the getting there is the worst. You lose an entire day and don't know where it went. We've since moved to VA so that flight is no longer needed.

Arlington native here...for anyone staying in our hurt-ing blue county, you may know there's a "new & improved!" mask mandate when outside and a nightly curfew between midnight and 5 AM for the past two weeks. But I'm glad to report that I've gotten away with flaunting both. Dirty and spooked looks are common, but no one's said a word to me...so one less thing to sweat while you're going about your mission.

Still monitoring the situation to see if they're going to try to block any bridges...but yeah as far as safety and trail layout otherwise, you should be good.

Before you remove this post I recommend you go to Tony luke's and Steve's for a cheese steak before going down to DC. Pat's geno's and delasandros are all over rated tourist traps.

that you for being with us... PA to DC is a long drive, be careful around Howard and Montgomery county MD, and on word in to DC its all speed traps, red light cameras and cops wth nothing better to do then jack people up... PA is mostly fine but watch your speed they are like GA when it comes to speed enforcement (i.e. strict)

In fact BE CAREFUL about providing any personal information. Don't trust ANYONE. Remember there were ANTIFA AND BLM dressed up as MAGA people who followed people to thinned out crowds, and attacked them.

I'm so happy for you though. Soon the ✈ flights will be scarce.

Phl to DC is over a 6hr drive iirc, and lots of tolls. BWI, IAD, DCA are all much closer. RDU is about 4 hr. CHO is 2hr. and plenty other airports also. LAX to RDU on american should be cheap. Airlines make it cheap for travel for hubs & focus cities.

If you haven't rented a car yet, or purchased an amtrak ticket, we have a mini bus traveling south from Hazleton PA. We were going to head to Gettysburg and meet up with the caravans, but we're heading through Philly to pick up 2 friends. If you need a lift, we got room for 2 more, we'll be going through there around 7 am.. this will be on the morning of the 6th if you're staying in a Philly hotel, just shoot a msg..
